1                   NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION TO DISMISS

2                   TO ALL PARTIES AND THEIR COUNSEL OF RECORD:

3                   PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on May 7, 2009, at 10:30 a.m., before the Honorable Vaughn
4                   R. Walker, United States District Chief Judge, in Courtroom 6, 17th floor, 450 Golden Gate Avenue,
5                   San Francisco, California, defendants AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc., SBC Long
6                   Distance, L.L.C., SBC Advanced Solutions, Inc., TCG St. Louis Holdings, Inc. dba TCG St. Louis
7                   and Southwestern Bell Telephone L.P., and TCG Kansas City, Inc. (collectively, the “AT&T defen-
8                   dants”), will move and hereby do move, pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6), to 9                   dismiss the plaintiff’s First Amended Application to Compel Production of Documents and to Com-
10                  pel Witnesses to Appear and Answer Questions Upon Oral Examination (Dkt. 1-6, “Application”)
11                  for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted.

12                  This motion is made on the grounds that § 803 of the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act
13                  (“FISA”) (added by § 201 of the FISA Amendments Act of 2008, Pub. L. No. 110-261, 122 Stat.
14                  2436, 2467-70) expressly preempts the plaintiff’s investigation into AT&T’s alleged role in a for-
15                  eign intelligence-gathering program of the National Security Administration (“NSA”), and that 16                  Commissioner Clayton does not have power under Missouri law to pursue this subpoena enforce-
17                  ment action on his own behalf.

18                  This motion is based on this notice of motion and motion, the memorandum that follows, all
19                  pleadings and records on file in this action, and any other arguments and evidence presented to this 20                  Court at or before the hearing on this motion. To minimize unnecessary duplication, AT&T has 21                  cited and incorporated by reference the United States’ consolidated motion for summary judgment in 22                  the “State Cases,”<sup>1</sup> as well as AT&T’s prior briefing in support of its earlier motion to dismiss the 23                  plaintiff’s Application.<sup>2</sup>

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

Missouri Public Service Commissioner Robert M. Clayton III seeks to enforce investigative subpoenas issued to the AT&T defendants that purport to require them to disclose information related to assistance that AT&T allegedly provided to the NSA, as part of a claimed foreign intelligence surveillance program. See, e.g., Subpoena Ad Testificandum ¶¶ 1-5, Dkt. 1-3; Subpoena Duces Tecum ¶¶ 1-4, Dkt. 1-3. As the United States has explained in its motion for summary judgment, Commissioner Clayton’s subpoenas (and this lawsuit to enforce them) are expressly preempted by § 803 of FISA. See U.S. Br. 6; 50 U.S.C. § 1885b(a). In an opposition brief Commissioner Clayton filed in this case alone, he has responded that, whatever the merits of the United States’ argument in the other five State Cases, its motion for summary judgment must be denied in this case because the United States is not a party, as this is a subpoena enforcement action by a state official directly against a carrier. This hypertechnical argument fails. Even if the United States did not have a statutory right to move to dismiss this case, see, e.g., 28 U.S.C. § 517; id. ¶ 2403(a), and even if the United States does not move to intervene, Commissioner Clayton’s argument still comes to naught for the simple reason that in one of the other State Cases – United States v. Clayton, No. 07-1242 – the United States is a party and sued Commissioner Clayton, and granting the United States’ requested relief in that case would have collateral estoppel effect in this one.

19 In any event, in an abundance of caution, the AT&T defendants file this motion to dismiss to 20 ensure that the relief sought by the United States in all six State Cases applies equally to Clayton v.
21 AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc. In addition, they further move to dismiss on the 22 ground that Missouri law does not authorize plaintiff's attempt to compel AT&T to respond to the 23 subpoenas. Enforcement of such investigative subpoenas must be undertaken by the Public Service
24 Commission as a whole and not, as here, on the order of a single commissioner. See Mo. Rev. Stat.
25 § 386.360.

26       1. On June 19 and June 22, 2006, several weeks after media reports regarding the 27 claimed assistance of telecommunications carriers in classified NSA surveillance programs, two 28 individual Commissioners of the Missouri State Public Service Commission – Clayton, and Steve

1       Gaw – issued investigative subpoenas purporting to seek information relating to AT&T’s alleged
2 disclosure of customer call records to the NSA. See, e.g., Subpoena Ad Testificandum ¶¶ 1-5, Dkt.
3 1-3; Subpoena Duces Tecum ¶¶ 1-4, Dkt. 1-3. They did so without the support or assent of a
4 majority of the Missouri Public Service Commission. When the AT&T defendants explained that
5 they could not comply with the subpoenas, Commissioner Gaw responded by filing this enforcement
6 action in Missouri state court (which was subsequently removed to federal court). See AT&T 1st
7 Mot. to Dismiss 3-5 (Dkt. 240) (describing procedural background).<sup>3</sup> Elsewhere in Missouri, the 8 United States filed a separate federal lawsuit to prevent Commissioner Gaw from enforcing, and 9 AT&T from complying with, the very same subpoenas. See United States v. Clayton (07-1242).
10 Both of those lawsuits now are before this Court.

11       2.       As the United States has explained in its motion for summary judgment, § 803 of 12 FISA expressly preempts state investigations into alleged classified federal intelligence programs, 13 including the investigative subpoenas issued by plaintiff. See U.S. Br. 6. The plain language of 14 § 803 divests the states of authority to investigate “alleged assistance to an element of the 15 intelligence community.” 50 U.S.C. § 1885b(a)(1); see U.S. Br. 4-8. Section 803 applies expressly 16 to suits brought by “any officer, public utility commission, or other body authorized to regulate an 17 electronic communication service provider.” 50 U.S.C. § 1885(9) (defining the term “State”).
18 Commissioner Clayton is an officer of a body authorized to regulate carriers such as the AT&T
19 defendants. By virtue of § 803, therefore, he has no “authority to ... conduct an investigation into 20 [AT&T]’s alleged assistance to an element of the intelligence community.” Id. § 1885b(a)(1). Nor 21 may he “commence or maintain a civil action or other proceeding to enforce a requirement that an 22 electronic communication service provider disclose information concerning alleged assistance to an 23 element of the intelligence community.” Id. § 1885b(a)(4). Indeed, Congress enacted § 803 in 24 response to the several pending investigations, including this one, which were initiated to 25 “investigate cooperation by state regulated carriers with U.S. intelligence agencies.” S. Rep. No.
26 110-209, at 26 (2007); see also U.S. Br. at 7-8. Accordingly, for the reasons the United States has

27       

28       <sup>3</sup> Commissioner Gaw’s term on the Commission subsequently expired, and Commissioner Clayton now remains the sole plaintiff. See Order Amending Case Caption (07-1187, Dkt. 15).

1 set forth, Commissioner Clayton's Application to compel the AT&T defendants to respond to the 2 investigative subpoenas must be dismissed.

3       3. Plaintiff’s enforcement action also is foreclosed by Missouri law. As the AT&T
4 defendants previously have explained,<sup>4</sup> the powers of the individual commissioners of the Missouri
5 Public Service Commission are expressly enumerated. And, whereas individual commissioners may 6 “undertake[]” an “investigation” or “inquiry,” including the power to issue subpoenas, Mo. Rev.
7 Stat. § 386.130; see AT&T 1st Mot. to Dismiss 21-24 (Dkt. 240); Reply Br. in Supp. of AT&T 1st
8 Mot. to Dismiss 12-14 (Dkt. 301-1), Missouri law is equally clear that actions to enforce
9 investigative subpoenas like the ones at issue here can only be undertaken by the five-member
10 Commission as a whole. Mo. Rev. Stat. § 383.360.1 (providing that the general counsel of the 11 Public Service Commission “shall” file such suits “in the name of the commission”). For this reason 12 as well, Commissioner Clayton’s lawsuit must be dismissed.

CONCLUSION

14 For the foregoing reasons, the motion to dismiss should be granted.

<sup>4</sup> The AT&T defendants advanced this argument as a basis to dismiss plaintiff's Application in their earlier motion to dismiss. See AT&T 1st Mot. to Dismiss 21-24 (Dkt. 240); Reply Br. in Supp. of AT&T 1st Mot. to Dismiss 12-14 (Dkt. 301-1). This Court did not address the issue. See generally In re NSA Telecomm. Records Litig., 2007 WL 2127345 (N.D. Cal. July 24, 2007). Because the clear absence of authority under Missouri law to pursue this enforcement action remains an independent reason to dismiss, we therefore respectfully renew the argument here.
